MONDAY, JULY 17, 1899.

Consumption of quinine by American soldiers suffering from one southern fever epidemic during the past two years said to exceed 123,000.0 grains. In some instances men in the hospitals of Cuba and Porto Rico were dosed regularly with grains a week, and there was hardly a man in the field who did not take the drug one time or another. Fully one-third of the entire quinine supply of the world is consumed in the United States.

According to a consular report the sudden rise in copper is responsible for extraordinary difficulties now confronting the Chinese currency system. The result has been at the cash or subsidiary Chinese coin is worth much more than its token value silver. In fact, that the Chinese government is paying 1.35 taels for the copper and no out of which is minted enough cash to take it out of the aggregate. In the end the most great scarcity in cash will cause the devaluation of silver subsidiary coinage in its stead.

SILVER coinage at the United States mints a June reached $3,155,018.05, and for the six months ending June 30 the total reached $2,760,441.20. The silver dollars in circulation in the United States, July 1, are placed by the treasury department at $98,381,704.43 $10,000,000 in the vaults at Washington. The latter is represented in the active currency by $416,000,315 in silver certificates. The argument about idle silver dollars has been dead for two years. When the crops were being harvested last fall the supply was short in the northwest and in the south. Denver News.

A LONDON dispatch of recent date says: In the house of commons during the recent debate on the military works bill, John Dillon, nationalist member from East Mayo, objected to the proposed expenditure on the defense at Halifax and Bermuda, adding that he firmly believed all the West Indian islands would soon belong to the U. S., as the inevitable result of the recent war. The inhabitants of the British West Indies, Mr. Dillon said, would find they must of necessity join the United States, since nature intended these islands to form a part of the United States. "The people of the islands will ultimately say so," declared the Irish statesman, "and Englishmen would not be so foolish as to resist. If they did, they would have to advance more loans to the islands and they would soon tire of that. Do the governors in an Anglo-American alliance imagine that they are promoting good feeling by erecting these fortifications?"

"The Lima bean growers of Southern California do not believe in trusts but they advocate exchanges. Only a year ago their beans were selling at from $1.30 to $1.50 per hundred pounds. Now they bring from $4 to $4.20. This rise is due to organization among growers. Southern California is the chief producer of Lima beans in the world, says an exchange, but the growers had no organization, and the market became unreasonably demoralized. The growers thought by combination a price of $2 could be had, and so they organized last year. There was a surplus of about 1,500 cars of beans held over from the crop of the previous season, and the first effort was to dispose of this by developing new markets abroad. This was brought about in short order, through an agreement among the growers that they would sell only through their exchange. The price at once rose to $2, and large orders from abroad, through the efforts of the exchange, soon exhausted the surplus stock and created a keen demand for the new crop. Now buyers are impatient for the coming crop, while offers of $4.10 await the consideration of the exchange. Arizona has valley sections where the Lima bean should be grown extensively. The Arizona grower could rely upon getting California prices, or better, because he is nearer the markets. It is so as to celery and fruit that are shipped from this territory.

Business men in various cities are complaining that the common schools of today do not teach the pupils how to spell or punctuate. It is said that a very small proportion of all the young men and women who apply for office positions, particularly as stenographers and typewriters, know the first principles of these very necessary accomplishments. Spelling, capitalization, division of words and punctuation are looked on as unimportant, apparently, and it is only after the young people have succeeded in getting a position in some office that they pick up these things they should have learned in the lower grades of the public schools. It is undoubtedly true that the teachers in the public schools do not pay the attention to these things that they should. The teachers themselves are often very shaky in their knowledge and practice of the technical details of writing. This is all wrong. Men of wide experience will say that a clear and correct knowledge of the rudiments of English expression, in reading, writing and speaking, is of more direct and immediate benefit to the young graduate from the public schools than any other single accomplishment. More than one case comes to mind where young men have got good positions and have been quickly advanced on account of ability to write a good letter. Most men know nothing about the so-called science of spelling character from handwriting, but the great majority of good business men judge a person at once by the appearance of the letters he writes. Too much insistence cannot be placed on the overwhelming importance of grounding the young while they are in school in the principles and practice of the most scrupulous accuracy in all matters relating to spelling, punctuation, and capitalization.
